

Austin Executive Airport Opening another Community Hangar.

Austin, TX – August 26, 2012 – The new Austin Executive Airport (KEDC) is celebrating its 95th based aircraft by answering the demand for additional corporate hangar space. To continue to meet this growing demand Austin Executive Airport (KEDC) initiates construction on another 26,650 square-foot corporate hangar. This will bring the airport's available community hangar lease space to over 87,000 square feet.

KEDC Executive Director Andrew D. Perry, A.A.E. said "We are very excited to see how the airport has grown and are busting at the seams since opening a little over 24 months ago. The expansion is a tribute to the outstanding customer service and attention to detail our staff provides to our aircraft owners and pilots."

Located 15-minutes from downtown adjacent to SH-130, Austin Executive Airport is a private development established by Mr. Ron Henriksen, a businessman and pilot with over 40 years in the aviation industry. Opened in June 2011 the airport caters to business and general aviation.

As part of Austin Executive's $33 million Master Plan, the airport boasts a variety of amenities including Henriksen Jet Center, a premier FBO terminal building with luxurious amenities, an 18,240 sq. ft. arrival canopy and a member of the Paragon Aviation Group. The 6,025-foot runway and 87,000-square-foot of hangar space can accommodate up to the largest corporate aircraft, including Gulfstream 650's and Global Express aircraft.

Austin Executive Airport is located at 6012 Aviation Drive, Pflugerville, TX 78660. Phone: 512-AIRPORT.
